

Speakers:

Dr Everett Julyan

Dr Everett Julyan is a Consultant in General Psychiatry in Ayrshire. He completed training in General Practice before specialising in mental health, and has a particular interest in medical ethics.

Mr Antony Ozimic

Mr Anthony Ozimic has been the communications manager of the Society for the Protection of Unborn Children (SPUC) since mid-2009. Mr Ozimic holds a Master of Arts degree in Bioethics from St Mary's University College, Twickenham, and his presentation is based on his degree dissertation. Prior to his current role he was SPUC's political secretary for nine years.

Professor Hugh McLachlan

Hugh McLachlan is Professor of Applied Philosophy at Glasgow Caledonian University. He has written on various aspects of medical ethics. He is the author (with J. Kim Swales) of From the Womb to the Tomb: Issues in Medical Ethics. He appears on the radio and television from time to time and writes regularly for The Scotsman.

Professor Calum MacKellar

Prof. MacKellar is the Director of Research of the Scottish Council on Human Bioethics in Edinburgh and a Visiting Professor of Bioethics at St Mary's University College in London.
